

BOWLERS WANT RULE CUT OUT

Cost of New Alleys on Which to Hold National Tournaments
Is Too Much.

Philadelphia, August 27.—The increasing cost of holding national bowling tournaments is being discussed these days by bowlers, and it is agreed that the principal item to be considered is the new alleys which are required. At a meeting of the board of governors of the National Bowling Association, held early this year in Philadelphia, the proposition was discussed of holding the yearly events on replanned alleys. It did not meet with much favor. Again at Baltimore the eastern bowlers discussed the matter, and there was a considerable change of sentiment. Philadelphia tenpin followers were particularly strong in favor of replanned alleys for a tournament, and there is no doubt that if the National Bowling Association could see its way clear to do away with the rule insisting on new alleys there would be a great fight to land the 1912 event. Newark, Washington, Philadelphia and Brooklyn might be in the field.

As the 1909 event was held in Baltimore and the 1910 tournament was scheduled for Buffalo next February, the 1911 contests will come in the natural course of events again come east.

Last year and before Buffalo had put in its proposal, Philadelphia offered to take hold of the 1911 affair provided permission would be granted to bowl the championship events on replanned alleys. Owing to the fact that all previous tournaments of both the National Bowling Association and the American Bowling Congress have been held on brand new alleys, this proposition seemed a bit drastic, particularly to the veterans, and they did not take kindly to the offer.

New alleys have always been used under the impression that this would tend more to equalize chances and would eliminate any possible advantage the local men might have on alleys to which they were accustomed. It has been found that replanned alleys offer as many obstacles to the man accustomed to bowl on them before their renovation as brand new alleys possibly could; so there appears to be nothing left in the new alley idea except a matter of sentiment, and perhaps pride.

If the National Bowling Association agrees to bowl on replanned alleys and the 1911 tournament is awarded to Philadelphia, there should be a splendid entry list with such enthusiasts as Henry J. Bergman, Elmer E. Dungan and the many other men of that character interested in the game in the Quaker City.

RANK PLAYING GIVES THE BUGS HEALTHY LEAD

To third. Then Griffin erred and Timman came home. In the seventh inning it really looked as if the old lucky seventh had come home to roost. In that box, Richmond died and then took a lead of one run on the bugs. Cowan started the ball with a smooth hit to left field for one base. Morrissey sacrificed him to second, and when Burke nailed out a drive for a single, he was home. Then Gaston managed to pull off a rather rank play and Burke came home flying.

With the score 5 to 4, and the Danville players making about as bad a showing as the Colts, hope began to rise, but when the ninth came that hope fell with a bang that could be heard for miles around. Rickett hit the first man up, but was thrown out going to second. Then Gaston hit and Shaw failed to connect. With the score second, Sullivan followed with another hit, which scored Gaston. Bunting tried to hit the moon on the next play, throwing to first base, but Sullivan was hunting for the ball Sullivan scored.

That was all there was to that game, and it seemed as if the Colts were glad that the agony was over.

Second Game. The second game, while better baseball, was wholly devoid of the slight features that marked the first. Danville plugged along on Salve's delivery and managed to get one run on two hits by Rickett and Griffin in the third inning. Again in the eighth inning the bugs rallied round the flag, and beginning with a double, double-bagger, followed by two singles and another double-bagger, managed to pull home two runs.

In spite of what was said and done, Steve Griffin had confidence enough in his information to use Walker again, and Walker was far more than the Richmonders could negotiate. The scores:

HEARNE IN BENZ TAKES OFF HONORS

Goes 100 Miles at an Average
Speed of Seventy-five Miles an Hour.

Indianapolis, Ind., September 3.—Eddie Hearne, of Chicago, piloted the big Benz car to victory in the 100-mile free for all and the ten-mile open event for the speedway helmet, and so carried off the majority of the laurels in the first day of the final race meeting on the Indianapolis speedway here to-day. Hearne's victory in the 100-mile battle netted him $1,000 in cash, and by winning the short free-for-all he retained possession of the speedway helmet, which he had captured at the July meeting with the same machine, the which bears with it a salary of $50 per week.

The second 100-mile struggle of the program was open to stock chassis cars, under 450 cubic inches, piston displacement, and the blue National, driven by Howard Wilcox, won without a stop in the fast time of 83 minutes and 3 seconds, with Charles Merz in the other National entrant a good second. The speedway, driven by "Jap" Clemens, was the third in the race to receive the checkered flag, armament of racing stars, and by his remarkable non-stop successes in the long stock chassis race gains possession of the silver brassard, which carries a salary of $15 per week, until the end of the Speedway contest season, and also takes into the national camp a trophy cup, both of which were offered for the 100-mile brassard classic.

The stock race was more closely contested than the free-for-all. The two Nationals and a Marmon, driven by Joe Dawson, battled around the two and one-half-mile circuit until the Marmon incurred motor trouble, as it was coming into the stretch at high speed, and so was forced to retire in the sixty-seventh mile.

The Westcott car, driven by Knight, took second money in the long distance free-for-all competition, and Livingston hurled a stock National across the wire for third honors.

Hearne's Benz was not crowded at any time. He stopped only once for more oil. The Chicago youngster and his foreign car averaged seventy-five miles an hour for the entire 100 miles, but his time of seventy-nine minutes and 58.1 seconds does not lower any records.

The entire program of ten events today failed to produce a new mark, and no accidents marred it. The racing will continue on Monday, and the program will conclude with a 200-mile big stock car chassis battle, which will end the motor racing over the local course for the season.
